School for St. Mary's Parish, Grayling has been announced by Father John Breitenstein, pastor of St. Mary's. The campaign, in form of a Pledge Drive embraciing the members of St. Mary's Parish will be conducted in about two weeks. Father Breitenstein will be assisted in the campaign by the members of the Parish without any assistance from local, State or Federal funds.
"The Church encourages Parochial schools because there can be no full education in any branch of learning without the knowledge of God who is the author and source of all knowledge." Father Breitenstein said. Parents are willing to make the sacrifice to fulfill the serious obligation of their parenthod, and exercise their privilege, of giving their children religious training according to their con-Leland Marshall.

This is the first step in the Parish Building program. The goal is a four classroom school with a lower floor to be used as the Church; later to be converted into the Parish hall when a new perturn the Parish hall when a new perturn the Church is erected. Michigan, under the Act of Congress of March 3, 1919.

War Taxes Still In Effect Congress should repeal the war-time excise taxes apply to various commodities, and also to rail, bus,

The roster of those who favor and have long-favored al is large, representative, and impressive. It inles labor unions, manufacturers, retailers, consumer ups, and economists. It was recently joined by tretary of Commerce Sawyer. The argument for repeal is based on two facts.

First, these taxes were strictly war-time emergency measures. They were designed to discourage productien of certain kinds of goods at a time when the whole nation was straining to live up to the needs of the war effort. The revenue the taxes raised was a secondary metter. The war has been over for years yet the taxes remain on the books.

Secondly, retailers, manufacturers and others who w what is going on, say that these taxes definitely he in the sale of affected items. For instance, an addiis enough to stop many people from making the purchase. Employment is thus adversely affected. And the volume of retail trade, which has so much to do with no out prosperity, is less than it would be otherwise.

A number of legislators visited the fish hatchery here, among them Walter J. Truettner. The items which are taxed should certainly not be considered frivolous luxuries in a nation which desires high and improving standard of living. Their widespread ownership and use is one of the things which 45 cz. can 40 distinguishes this from most other countries.
